Montclair St. gets Hampden for Rockne foe

Virginia's Hampden-Sydney College yesterday was chosen to meet Montclair State this Saturday in the second annual Knute Rockne Bowl at the Convention Hall in Atlantic City.

Hampden-Sydney (9-1) defeated Randolph-Macon Saturday for the Mason-Dixon Conference championship to win the bid from the NCAA. Hampden-Sydney was also the winner of last year's initial Knute Rockne Bowl, defeating the University of Bridgeport, 28-27.

The game will decide the East Regional titlist of the NCAA's College Division II.

Hampden-Sydney has a rugged defense led by 185-pound linebacker Mike Liedy. The Rebels lost their first game of the year to Maryville, Va., 6-0, and have since won nine straight. In that nine-game span, they have yielded a total of 22 points.

The offense much like Montclair State's this season has sputtered, but Hampden-Sydney has a talented halfback in Tracey Powers, a freshman who carried 56 times for 216 yards in Saturday's 12-7 decision over Randolph-Macon. The Rebels are coached by Shakely Fulton.

They will meet a Montclair State 8-1 team that gave up only 45 points in nine games while winning the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference title and finishing second to Central Connecticut State—the only team to defeat the Indians this year — in the Eastern Football Conference.

Notre Dame formally accepted an invitation yesterday to return to the Cotton Bowl Classic Jan. 1 to meet either Texas or Arkansas.

"Our players felt that the Cotton Bowl offered a good opportunity to play in a game that could possibly decide this year's national champion," said Irish coach Ara Parseghian. "If Texas repeats as the Southwest Conference representative, the outcome of the game could well determine the national title."

The announcement was made by the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, Executive Vice President and Chairman of the faculty board in control of athletics, after Notre Dame players voted to accept the Cotton Bowl's bid instead of a similar one from the Orange Bowl.

"We are delighted to again participate in this post season game," Rev. Joyce said. "The warm hospitality that was extended to us last year made our trip a pleasant experience."

"It was not an easy decision," Parseghian said. "Both the Orange Bowl and Cotton Bowl are fine affairs. It was a great game a year ago, but, of course, our opponents are still unknown. The squad felt that regardless of the opposition it would be a great challenge."

An opponent for the undefeated Irish will be determined Dec. 5 at Austin when Texas and Arkansas clash for the Southwest Conference Championship. The conference automatically furnishes the host team in the bowl.

Montclair State's task: Stop Hampden's Powers

By WALT MACPEEK

Tracy Powers in what his coach, Stokeley Fulton, calls "a good ol' determined country boy."

Powers was so detemined last week, in fact, that he carried the ball 56 times for an NCAA college division record . . . not bad for a freshman who was a No. 3 tailback two months ago.

He will be the ball carrier Montclair State must contain Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in Atlantic City's Convention Hall if they are to end Hampden-Sydney's nine-game winning streak in the second annual Knute Rockne Bowl.

The Tigers of Hampden-Sydney, Va., (pop 5,700) started off the season with a fleet young man named Bobby Long at tailback but decided to improve their passing game and moved him to split end for game No. 4.

Since then, Long has caught 22 passes for 231 yards and three TDs, so Fulton has no complaints.

And, as he recalled yesterday in telephone interview, "Our No. 2 tailback, Frosty Owens, did just fine."

"Just fine' ' it turns out, was two games over 100 yards rushing, but at the end of his second assignment, Owens pulled a groin muscle and Powers (6-1, 185) got his chance

"Tracy was itchin' to get in there," Fulton noted, "and it doesn't hardly seem like anybody is going to get him out now."

685 YARDS

In the last five games, Powers has picked up 685 yards in 160 carries and seems to get stronger each week.

"He's a horse . . . a good 'ol worker, Fulton says of the 19-year-old from Buckingham, Va. a rural community of 1,000.

Powers, of course, does not gain yardage all by himself.

"We try to give the boy a little help," Fulton explained,' ' and while we're not very big, we have been

LoBalbo on FDU prospects: Offense will be rugged

Fairleigh Dickinson's basketball team is noted for its rugged defensive play as evidenced by its No. 3 standing in the country last season . . . But now coach Al LoBalbo has sounded the warning that the Knights will be just as rugged on offense.

"We don't have the players to use the finesse game. We have tough kids who don't look beautiful on offense but they get the job done. So if you see one of our guys driving to the basket and someone is in his way, well . . . then that's the other guy's tough luck."

One of the players "who moves people around" is fullback Bobby Woltz, a senior co-captain who also carries the football occasionally (115 carries for 471 yards and six TDs) from the Power-I formation.

The Tiger tackles, small but very quick, are Vince Hardy (6-0, 200) and Barry Parsley (6-1, 195). Hardy received Little All-America honorable mention last year as a junior and, if he doesn't do at least as well after this season is over, it will only be because Parsley has played well enough to take some of his press notices away.

STRONG ON DEFENSE

Montclair State (8-1), of course, is a very strong defensive club and has yielded an average of only 76 yards rushing per game. Powers had more than that last week in the first half of a 12-7 victory over Randolph-Macon that gave the Tigers (9-1) a nine-game skein and the NCAA college division bowl bid.

Although the Tigers (9-1) have gained twice as many yards on the ground as through the air, they do have a dependable little quarterback in 5-9, 165 pound Ricky Beale. He has thrown 157 times, completing 78 for 850 yard and 11 TDs.

In addition to ex-tailback Long, Beale has had considerable success throwing footballs to tight end Dave Shelor, who also has 22 catches (for 211 yards and two TDs).

The Hampden-Sydney team will arrive in New Jersey tomorrow morning and work out on the indoor grass field at 2 p.m. in Convention Hall. The Indians of Montclair will drill at 4 p.m. and it will also be their first time on an indoor field.

In last year's first-ever Knute Rochne Bowl, Randolph-Macon defeated Bridgeport (Conn.), so Montclair State will have to stop Powers to even the record for the east.

Navy had suffered through three near-misses in the first half, and in each case had contributed as much toward the failure of the drives as Army had with its rugged defense.

Montclair St. wins Rockne Bowl

By WALT MacPEEK

Record-breaking performances by seniors Tony Valpone and Fred Brunelli squeezed Montclair State past Hampden-Sydney, 7-6, yesterday in the second annual Knute Rockne Bowl at Atlantic City.

The two defense-oriented, ball control teams slugged it out before only 2,700 fans inside the 12,500-seat Convention Hall as the New Jersey school won in its first bowl appearance, an NCAA college division affair.

Valpone, who scored Montclair State's TD, gained 48 yards in 18 carries as the Indians boosted their final season record to 9-1, best in the school's history. The power-running fullback needed only 36 yards to break the 1965 record of 915 yards by Rich Higgins.

Brunelli, a 5-9 senior from Palisades Park, had an even more brilliant afternoon, snagging three interceptions to raise his season total to a record ten for the Clifton school.

More important, it was Brunelli who helped tip Hampden-Sydney's extra point try into the air. Alex Kaplanovich then won a wrestling match with two Virginians for the vital interception and the Montclair State defense took it from there.

Hampden - Sydney, which had given up only 28 points in winning its last nine after an opening loss, didn't make many mistakes on defense but five turnovers on offense meant the ball game.

"Defense did it all year . . . " Montclair State coach Clary Anderson said (his team allowed 45 points in its first eight games) and he didn't even have to finish the sentence.

With middle linebacker Pete Contaldi and defensive end Mike Van Zile leading the way, the Indians were their usual stingy selves, especially in the second half when the visitors from Virginia gained only 45 yards in total offense.

As expected, it was a defensive struggle all the way with neither team able to control t he ball on the ground.

"We kind of lucked out, but you get more luck when you play good defense. They really hit hard, too," Anderson added, "and breaks were the difference."

A fumble recovery by linebacker Bob Jensen of Union City gave Montclair State the ball on the Hampden Sydney 49 late in the third quarter and Brewster led the Indians to the 19 before Butch Beverly intercepted on the one-yard line after six plays.

Beverly, who stepped in front of Parker Snare, waiting for the ball in the end zone, tumbled backward but the officials ruled that he had caught the ball on the one.

It turned out to be a very crucial point because the Indians' forced Hampden Sydney to punt from its three, taking over with only 27 yards to go for the TD.

Valpone blasted for ten yards on first down and Roland Kascher caught a Brewster pass in a crowd for another first down at the end to set up Valpone's scoring dive.

The 6-0, 211-pound fullback from Somerset tumbled over behind a block by right tackle Jeff Scheetz of Clifton and then Brewster booted the all-important extra point after only four seconds of the fourth period.

Hampden-Sydney showed it could also take advantage of a break when it came back eight minutes later to drive for a touchdown, following a fumble by Valpone at the Montclair 16.

Tracy Powers accounted for 13 of the yards from there, including the last one for the TD, bouncing along the goal line and falling just in with 6:23 left in the game.

Coach Stokeley Fulton elected to go for two points to try and pull out the victory but Kaplanovich spoiled the plan by grabbing a "free" football as it was batted around in the end zone.

Brunelli, who was one of three players in the crowd just inside the goal line out of which the ball was knocked high into the air, came up with two interceptions in the final five minutes to cap a spectacular effort.

The deepest penetration on the first half was made by the visitors from Virginia, who turned briefly to the forward pass and went 49 yards in nine plays.

Quarterback Ricky Beale threw for 25 yards on two completions and the Tigers picked up another 12 yards on pass interference before Montclair State's Brunelli brought things to a halt on the 12 yard line.

Brunelli actually stole the football from Dave Shelor, who had been flipped into the air on a hard tackle by Lonnie Xoncelsi.

The closest the Indians came in a speedy first half that took only 50 minutes (due to lack of passing) was H&S' 19.

Montclair State was forced to punt after its first series and John Daly recovered a fumble by Bobby Long at the visitors' 25.

Valpone struggled up the middle twice for six yards but Morschauser was belted for no gain by H&S middle Bob Brewster attempted a field goal from the 26.

The kick was true but faded quickly and sailed under the cross bar and onto the stage of Convention Hall.

After Van Zile had pushed the Tigers all the way back to their own two yard line with a perfect coffin corner kick of 33 yards, Hampden-Sydney marched 68 yards for a field goal try late in the first half.

Tracy Powers, the Tigers' freshman fullback who carried 56 times for 202 yards a week ago, pounded away for 18 yards in five carries and added 12 more a screen pass.

Paul Page tried a 47-yarder after Contaldi had broken up a desperation third down pass but it was very short as the first half ended in a stalemate.

the two countries to arrive at a golf ball of uniform size. The manufacturers could be stuck with a large inventory of off-sized golf balls as well as the additional expense of creating molds for the proper size.

If that happens, a large part of the golfing public, largely that part which doesn't particularly worry about fractional differences in size of the ball (more about just hitting it some place), likely would be glad to relieve the manufacturers of all the balls they want to get rid of.

At a fair discount, of course.

THE SECOND PROBLEM would become real if a suggestion in England catches on. This one deals with the number of clubs the faithful carry around on the courses.

The limit, of course, is 14, so designed to prohibit players from carrying even more. But the suggestion in England is for a matched set of 10, consisting of woods 1½, 3 and 4½, and irons 3½, 5, 6½, 8, 9½, sand iron and putter. The theory is that the average golfer of 8 to 18 handicap doesn't need any more, and certainly the hordes of cart-pulling golfers wouldn't object to pulling a lighter load.

The better players are likely to insist on the prevailing 14 clubs, but the manufacturers would be selling fewer clubs to a lot of people if the set-of-10 became popular.

WE REMEMBER JOHNNY DOLAN because he was at one time our partner in the publication of a golf magazine, but that isn't why we mention it. There must be just about every golf veteran in the Metropolitan area who remembers him, too.

He wasn't a bad golfer, since he won his share of local events and once reached the final round of the Metropolitan Amateur, which isn't a nickel tournament. But what made Johnny Dolan well known was his personality—Emerald Isle, extraverted, glib, amiable, hot-tempered, friendly and competitively belligerent—set off by a handsome face and an expensive wardrobe.

He was a member of the old Crestmont Country Club and later Forest Hill, and a fixture at the Newark and New York Athletic Clubs. But actually he knew the membership at just about every club in the area—and the membership knew him.

Some two decades back, he headed South and wound up inevitably as golf director at the lush Doral in Miami for five seasons. A year ago, he moved into a similar job at the well-promoted King's Inn and Golf Club in Nassau. From Dec. 9 to Dec. 13, he will preside there as host to the $130,000 Bahamas Island Open.

He has been happy enough, lately, directing a staff of eight pros, six golf shop salesmen, 25 maintenance employes and a fleet of 250 carts. But Johnny Dolan, as host of a major tour event, has to regard that achievement as the highlight of his career.

Montclair Wins, 7-6

Special To The Sunday Record

ATLANTIC CITY — Montclair State completed the greatest season in its history yesterday by edging Hampden-Sydney, 7-6, in the Knute Rockne Bowl. The Indians won their last six games in a row, and finished 9-1. Hampden-Sydney (9-2) had a nine-game winning streak snapped.

The game was highlighted by the rugged defenses on both sides. The two teams were locked in a scoreless duel for more than three quarters. It was only fitting that an interception on a two-point pass attempt decided the contest.

Late in the third quarter, Montclair State back Lonnie Moncelsi returned a punt seven yards to the Hampden 29. Fullback Tony Valpine carried 12 yards to the 17 for a first down. Keying against the Indians' top runner, the Virginians threw Valpone for a 2-yard loss on the next play, and then for no gain to set up a crucial third-down situation.

Finding the running lanes clogged, Montclair took to the air. Bob Brewster connected with Roland Kascher for a 17-yard gain to the 2-yard line. After an unsuccessful running play around end to start the final period, Valpone dove over the middle for the game's first score. Brewster converted and the Indians led 7-0 with a little more than 14 minutes remaining in the session.

After stopping Hampden, Montclair got the ball back deep in its own territory. Valpone fumbled on a dive into the line, however, and the Tigers' Stan Vaughan recovered on the Indian 16. It took the Virginians six running plays to score.

Tracy Powers carried for 15 of those yards, including the final one for the touchdown with 8:37 remaining in the game. Hampden went for two points and victory, but the pass was picked off by Alex Kaplanovich, leaving the Indians with a 7-6 lead.

Neither team could muster a threat the rest of the way. John Brunelli, who intercepted three passes, swiped a Hampden pass with 2:20 remaining to clinch the verdict for the Indians.

Each team had a scoring opportunity in the first half, but neither could get on the scoreboard. Montclair the drive. This was as close as Hampden could get to the marched to the Hampden 19 in the first period, but Brewster's field goal attempt went underneath the crossbar.

The Virginians threatened in the second quarter, but the ever-present Brunelli intercepted at the Indian 12 to kill Montclair goal line until the last quarter.

Valpone carried 18 times for 48 yards. Yesterday's production raised his season rushing yardage to 928, a Montclair State record.

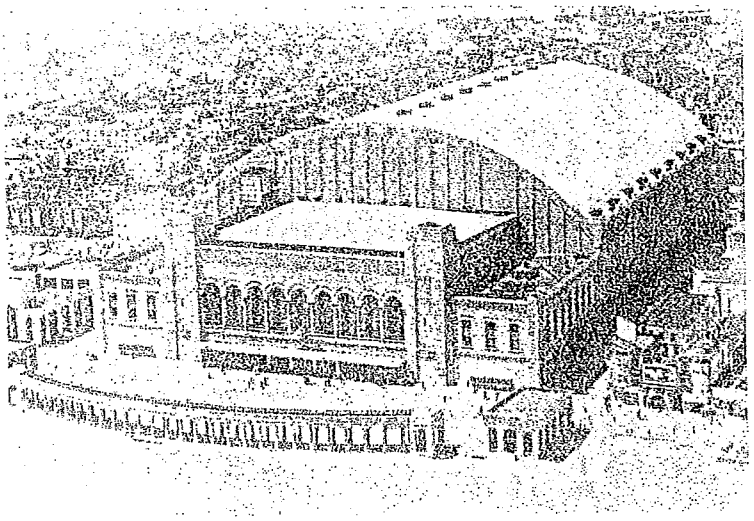
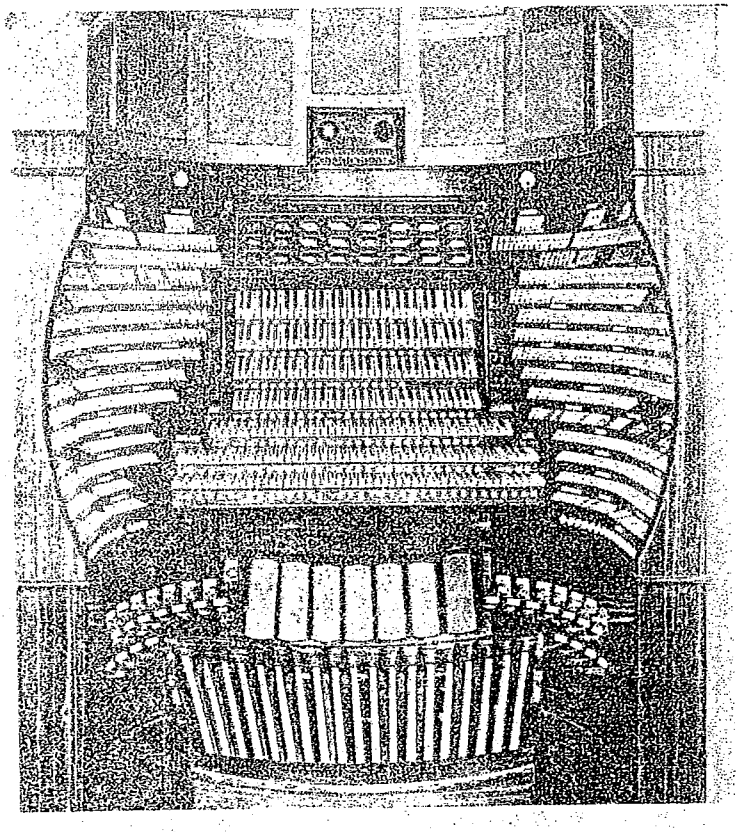
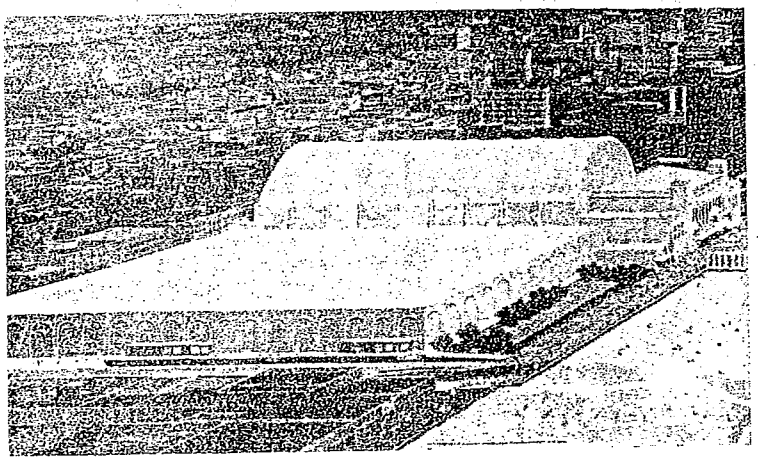
THE COLLEGE GAME ®







Welcome to the World-Famous Atlantic City Convention Hall and the World's Largest Auditorium . . .

It took four years of building to open the Atlantic City Convention Hall on Memorial Day, 1929, and it took $5 million and two years more to modernize it in the early Sixties, so that today it has ultra modern lighting, is fully air-conditioned, and has additional facilities such as escalators and an under-the-Boardwalk tunnel vehicle entrance.

A 13-story building could be set upon the floor of the main auditorium without touching the roof. It occupies four city blocks on some seven acres of sand and its interior space amounts to more than 9,500,000 cubic feet.

The Main Hall, site of the 1968 Boardwalk Bowl game, is 488 feet long, 288 feet wide, 137 feet high at its curved roof peak and has no pillars — making it the largest room of its kind in the world.

The 350,000 square feet of exhibit space on the main floor has service centers throughout with gas, water, sewerage, electricity, steam and compressed air. The main hall is set up for football now, but in January will be completely converted into a capacity display of china and glassware.

The main auditorium also houses the world's largest pipe organ with seven manuals. There are 1225 speaking stops and 33,000 pipes ranging from three-sixteenths of an inch to 64' in length. The wiring used would girdle the earth twice.

It was only last Sunday — Nov. 23rd — that Convention Hall West was dedicated, making Atlantic City's Convention Hall complex the largest in the East with a total of 525,000 square feet, 334,000 of which is on one level. Storage and parking are available under the new addition, with its own entrance from the Boardwalk, but tied directly to the original building, where the Knute Rockne Bowl game is being played today.

The Second Annual Knute Rockne Bowl marks the second year of expansion of the NCAA post-season football competition to Division II college teams.

For 14 states in the East the Knute Rockne Bowl will determine a winner who will be representative of the caliber of football strived for at 70 colleges in the Eastern Section of the NCAA Division II classification.

The colleges in the East Section of Division II of the NCAA classification include those in the six New England States: Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Maine; the Middle Atlantic States: New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania; and Delaware, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

The institution of the Division II NCAA bowl games expands NCAA post-season activities beyond the four regional bowls which have been played in the past. The four include: the Boardwalk Bowl at Atlantic City; the Grantland Rice Bowl at Baton Rouge, La.; the Pecan Bowl at Arlington, Texas; and the Camelia Bowl at Sacramento, Cal.

The Western Section bowl, the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl, is played with two colleges as the representatives of the 90 colleges in that Section.

The naming of the two bowls was made after a committee determined that these two famous coaches were deserving of continuing recognition in the form of active participation of players, coaches, colleges and football fans.

Knute Rockne established the best winning percentage of any college football coach, with a record of 88 percent victories, including a record of 105 victories, only 12 defeats and 5 ties during 13 years at the University of Notre Dame.

Amos Alonzo Stagg had an incredible football coaching career, and the most victories of any college coach — a total of 314 wins. He was head coach from 1890 to 1946 at different colleges, including Springfield College, the University of Chicago and the College of the Pacific. Then after retirement of only one year he returned to college football in 1947 and continued as an assistant coach until the age of 85, in 1960.

The two new classics were set up in conjunction with the 100th-year anniversary of college football celebrated during the current season.

Montclair State College

DR. THOMAS H. RICHARDSON
President
Montclair State College

Montclair State College is young enough to enjoy occasional visits from the members of its first graduating class, and old enough to have acquired a set of cherished traditions and secured a place among the country's distinguished institutions of higher education.

Founded in 1908 as a two-year normal school, it became a four-year State Teachers College in 1927. The first four-year graduating class was in 1932.

Four hundred feet above sea level, the campus in Upper Montclair, New Jersey looks over broad valleys to the skyline of New York City. The original 2 acres have grown, through subsequent purchases, to 90.

The school's first building, a multi-purpose structure of Spanish Mission design, is still a campus landmark. It is now one of 26 buildings, including a modern gymnasium with indoor swimming pool, a 1,000 seat auditorium, library with space for 150,000 volumes, a convertible little theatre, suitable for both prosenium and arena productions.

Dr. Charles S. Chapin, who abandoned a legal career to devote himself to education, was the normal school's first principal.

Montclair State has been served by many men of distinction who have left their mark as educators and authors. One of the most colorful of these was the school's first mathematics teacher, John C. Stone. Born in a log cabin, Professor Stone had only four months of formal education when he entered the college. His mathematics textbooks were used in every state in the union, and their sales reached over 20 million.

The immediate past president of the College, Dr. E. DeAlton Partridge, is now president of Near East Foundation. The current president, Dr. Thomas H. Richardson, is internationally known for his work in the field of education.

In 1958 the College dropped the word "teachers" from its title, foretelling its wider role in New Jersey education. While the school continues to prepare teachers for the public schools of the state, primarily in secondary education, it now offers extensive liberal arts program.

When Montclair Normal School opened its doors for the first time, it welcomed a student body of 187, almost all of them women. Today there are approximately 4,300 undergraduates, close to two-thirds of whom are women.

Montclair State is primarily a commuter college. A large percentage of its enrollment is drawn from the counties of Northern New Jersey.

The intercollegiate athletic program of MSC now includes 11 sports. Teams on the varsity level are fielded in football, soccer, and cross-country in the Fall; basketball, fencing, gymnastics and wrestling in the Winter; and baseball, track, golf and tennis in the Spring.

The athletic program is under the direction of the Montclair Athletic Commission, a body composed of faculty and students. The program is administered by the Director of Athletics, William P. Dioguardi.

At present, the Montclair State faculty includes a number of prominent educators, among them Dr. Russell Krauss, a Chaucerian scholar of world renown; Paul Clifford, a leading quality control expert; Dr. Sampson McDowell, authority on oceanography; Dr. Bertha B. Quintana, well-known anthropologist; and Dr. Harold M. Scholl, a pioneer in speech therapy.

About Hampden-Sydney College

W. TAYLOR REVELEY
President

Hampden-Sydney College, a liberal-arts college for men enrolling about 600 students, has been in continuous operation since January, 1776. Ever since the opening session, the college has been committed to a particular form of a liberal arts education. The faculty endeavors to make as the end of this education an effective commencement into business, the professions, or post-graduate schools. The college is not a miniature university, and it cannot be all things to all who would enter; but if this is a limitation, it is also an asset, for the full resources of the college can be dedicated to the one kind of education.

Its aim is to give to selected young men of ability a broad understanding of the world and man's place in it from the standpoint of the sciences and the humanities, to develop clear thinking through linguistic, scientific, and historical studies; to impart a comprehension of man's social institutions as a basis for the exercise of intelligent citizenship in a democracy; to unite sound scholarship with the principles and practice of the Christian religion; and to equip those with special interests and capacities for graduate study and research.

Hampden-Sydney is likewise proud of its intercollegiate athletic program. It is affiliated with the NCAA and competes in the formidable Mason-Dixon conference as well as the Virginia Small College League. The college offers the very latest athletic advantages, including a fully-equipped gymnasium and excellent facilities for football, baseball, basketball, wrestling, tennis, and track. A recent survey disclosed that over eighty percent of its students participated in a comprehensive program of intramural activities which includes all seasonal sports from the beginning of autumn through the end of spring.

The name Hampden-Sydney, chosen for the college, symbolized the union of civil and religious liberty, the first element being derived from the name of John Hampden, opponent of the "ship money" tax in the time of Charles I, and the second from Algernon Sydney, a defender of religious liberty in the time of Charles III. It is one of the leading educational institutions of the Presbyterian Church.
